

Descriptive v Inferential Statistics

Descriptive statistics are numbers that are used to summarise and describe data. They do not involve generalising beyond the data at hand.

While Descriptive statistics are in fact descriptive, inferential statistics involves making generalisations beyond the data at hand.